

Magnetex[®] Magnetic Vortex Device

WARNING

Do NOT Use the Magnetex[™] AT ALL—or Use CONDITIONALLY—under the following circumstances:

- ◆ Do not place strong magnets near the heart without proper medical advice.
- ◆ Do not place magnets on someone who has a pacemaker.
- ◆ Do not use on areas that contain metal implants (stents, joint replacements, metal plates or screws, piercings, etc.). Feel free to work on other areas of the body if you keep the unit 8 inches away from the metal.
- ◆ People with a history of seizures, strokes, who are taking blood thinners, or who have other serious health issues, should consult with their practitioner before using any magnetic equipment.
- ◆ Do not use magnets on pregnant women or on children under two years old.

The Magnetex's Neodymium Magnets Create Powerful Detox

More is not always better. The Magnetex[®] feels great, but don't use it for longer than 15 or 20 minutes, especially at first. It's better to use the equipment more often and for less time during each session, than less often and for more time during each session.

Don't eat a large meal before the session. Applying the Magnetex[®] to the abdomen after a large meal can unfavorably change the gastric secretions and interfere with digestion. Therefore, it's best to wait 2 hours after a large meal before using the device. However, you may use the device on other areas of the body.

Water is essential! As with any detoxification protocol, toxins will be released during Magnetex[®] sessions. Water will reduce the ratio of poisons to plasma and flush the contaminants from the body. Drink two cups of water after the session, and additional water throughout the day. (One popular guideline is one fluid ounce for every two pounds of body weight.) The water should have an alkaline pH (over 7.0; up to 8.5 pH is probably ideal). To further mineralize the water, add electrolytes, colloidal minerals, chlorophyll, freshly squeezed lemon juice, or a pinch of Celtic salt or pink salt. Do not drink distilled water.

See page 6 of the Magnetex[®] Instruction Booklet for detailed instructions on what to take to detoxify from the debris released by the Magnetex.[®]

The Magnetex's[®] Powerful Neodymium Magnets Affect You. But They Also Affect Objects!

For Your Own Protection, Keep the Magnetex[®] Away From:

- ◆ Cell phones
- ◆ Computers
- ◆ DVD players
- ◆ Credit cards
- ◆ Diskettes
- ◆ Watches
- ◆ Hearing aids
- ◆ Pacemakers
- ◆ Anything else that relies on electronic data storage to run

These items can become demagnetized if placed too close to the Magnetex[®].
